C.U.C.N.D. POLL RESULTS

GREEN and GOLD

I would like to take this opportunity of thanking all those who participated in Green and Gold auditions. The turn out, especially for dancing, was much better than in previous years, and actually better than was anticipated. At this point, the Green and Gold Executive reviews the talent available, comparing it to the talent required, the end product being a tentative layout of the people to fill the available positions. However, nothing definite is decided this term, and the results are withheld until examinations and practice teaching are finished. If you missed the auditions this term, you still may have the opportunity after the Christmas holidays to take part in the Macdonald College revue.

Ian CUBITT, Producer.

TOUR TO RUSSIA

On Wednesday evening, at a Student Society meeting, Dr. W.E. Saskston, Professor of Plant Pathology, gave an interesting and very enjoyable talk on his recent trip to the Soviet Union. As one of ten Canadian scientists on an exchange visit, he had the opportunity to become acquainted with some of the aspects of life in Russia, especially at the University level. Dr. Saskston, in reviewing his itinerary through the U.S.S.R. — Moscow, Kiev, Leningrad, the Ukraine — exhibited by the use of colour slides the architecture and dress of the country.

The many questions asked after the talk were a good indication that students here are interested in the way of life on the other side of the "fence."

LITERARY CONTEST

Remember — deadline for the Fault-He Times Literary Contest is December 1, 1961. Prizes offered for first, second and third places. Place your contributions in the green Fault-He box.

MANY THANKS

I would like to convey my sincere thanks to the two people who picked up my five dollar bill and returned it. It is refreshing to note that people are still basically honest.

Chris SEARY.

EDITORIALS COMMENTS

WE REGRET

We sincerely regret the lack of an editorial, editorial cartoon, and a list of staff members in this week's Fault-Yet Times. Due to advertising commitments, it was found necessary to delete the aforementioned features. These features will return next week.

The opinions expressed herein are those of the editorial staff and not necessarily those of the Students' Council.

CAMERA CLUB

The Camera Club held another successful meeting last Tuesday evening. This meeting was another demonstration on photo-flood photography, and many of the errors made in the previous session were ironed out through discussion and co-operative evaluation.

The next meeting will be after Christmas, at which time new topics will be presented.

POSTERS

Many of the posters which are put up to inform the student body of events happening on the campus are being defaced or taken by several individuals. Are these people unable to read? Surely if they look closely in the lower right-hand corner they will see this '$5.00 fine for removal' and this will be signed by one of the members of the Publicity Committee. We ask that these people who are guilty of taking posters, just to decorate their rooms or some other such useless thing, refrain from doing so. In the future, the fine will be lowered on anyone caught in the act. Do not be selfish — let others know what is going on around the campus.

HERE AND THERE

By TONY BROSCOMB

Dear Oberon:

I presume that the notice referred to in my column last week, re: "fairy dancing," was a "plant." I came to this conclusion by the wording in your reply, quote, "...merely proved my hypothesis..." The second reason was because I saw only the one notice. Usually, such notices are distributed in other, and equally prominent places. In short, the whole thing appeared to be premeditated. If my reasoning is correct, then I must congratulate you on a masterful piece of work.

In the meantime (and I'm sure that this is what everyone has been waiting for), I'm afraid that I must decline your most gracious offer; that of participating in the "fairy dancing" (which I find to be a gross misnomer). Why do I refuse? Follow ye closely.

By taking up thy challenge, oh Oberon, I would be reverting to a primitive state of exercise which has been frowned upon in my family—when after the Norman conquest of England, one of my forefathers swore that he nor any of the future generations of his family, would go to so much trouble over so little. However, to the meat of the thing. If I took up the challenge, it would signify to thee that I have my doubts as to which is the mightier, and I have no doubts whatsoever, that the pen is mightier than the sword.

P.S.—My "Pas de Deux" is my typewriter.

If you have ever been in the Brittain swimming pool as I have, then you will realize just what I mean when I say that the water must be pumped in directly from the Ottawa River. Here is a first-hand report of the situation.

Friday last, I prepared for another strenuous Phys. Ed. period, which happened to be swimming. Upon arrival at the locker-room dressing room, I changed into my bikini, and to the pool-side wiggled I. Eyeing the water, it appeared to be cool, clean, and refreshing, so, with great preparation which involved climbing into a shower of hot water, and gradually getting it down to the coldest, I finally wiggled out, to stand in a classical pose ready for the plunge. I plunged! Boy, what a thrill.

Only after a couple of the guys pulled my head out of the silt, could I recollect what had happened. On taking my plunge, a clump of bacteria, better known as The Blindens, lodged themselves betwixt my eyeballs and the sockets. Naturally, I was temporarily blinded, and did not see the conglomeration of material on the bottom of the pool.

Only after I had stood under a hot shower for half an hour (til well boiled), did I feel sterilized enough, to, once again, mingle with my fellow humans.

The room is well-lighted, warm, but not too warm. It is spacious enough to contain two desks, a couple of chairs, a filing cabinet, and a long, very useful counter. The radio oozes forth classical music, which reminds me that there is still enough room left for three or four couples to dance in. The walls are light in colour, and interspersed around them are a couple of paintings, one a still life oil painting, and the other is but a reproduction of a painting by Toulouse Lautrec. Travel posters hit your eye on entering the room, not to mention insignias of favorite beers. Large windows let in the long day's sunshine—when the sun is out. Otherwise, one can see the river, and the Quebec countryside glistening after an autumn drizzle.

It is very quiet and peaceful in this room, with the exception of one or two evenings a week. Does it sound like heaven? Would you like a room like this one, even if only for the occasional rowdy evenings? Good! come and join the Failt-Ye staff—that's where we do our work.

Clan Macdonald

It has been decided, due to the nearness of exams, practice teaching, and other things, that the Clan will not go on sale until January, 1962. However, if there is anyone who wishes to place their order for a Clan before Christmas, they may get in touch with Vic Colpitts, Clan Business Manager, Brittain Hall. The price of the Clan will be $3.00.

Anyone who has candid photographs or scenery photographs which they would like to contribute to the Clan may send either the prints or negatives to: Garth Coffin or John von Abbema, Brittain Hall. These should be identified with the name and address of the sender, so that they may be returned, especially in the case of negatives.

Beard Growing Starts November 27

Santa Claus will soon be here,
Carnival time is very near,
So grow your beard and don't delay—

Get ready for that hairy day.

The Annual Beard Growing Contest, sponsored by the Winter Carnival, will begin officially on Monday, November 27, 1961, then all the entrants must sign in with John Lord or Dave Phillips. Come on men, forego that daily wrestle with the razor and let that stubble flower into a verile growth. Remember, it only itches for a little while. Prerequisites for application are few, and anyone fulfilling the following requirements is eligible:

1) All applicants should be male. (Exception to this rule can be made on request.)

2) "Boys" are definitely excluded from entering.

3) Applicants must shave on Monday, November 27, before reporting to J. Lord or D. Phillips.

4) The contest will be judged during the Winter Carnival, (February 1-3, 1962); the judges' decision will be final and no correspondence disputing their decision will be considered.

5) Any type of beard will be considered suitable, but a mustache alone will be regarded as insufficient evidence of the wearer's ability.

6) Withdrawals will be permitted, although frowned upon as indicative of a lack of intestinal fortitude on the part of the person withdrawing.

7) Unfortunately, members of the Institute of Education are not permitted to enter. Some professors must have an interest in Gillette stock.

LOTS OF LUCK, MEN.

ROYAL ON THE MOVE

By CHUCK HYMAN

One of the highlights of the college Royal is the livestock show which is held on the day of the Royal in the judging pavilion of the Livestock barns. Each year approximately a hundred students from Agriculture, Home Economics, and Education participate in this event. All animals used that day belong to the College Livestock Farm. The judges are prominent farmers or government officials working in some phase of agriculture. In some cases these judges are former graduates of Macdonald College.

There are four divisions in the Livestock show; dairy-cattle with two breeds, Ayrshire and Holstein, beef-Aberdeen-Angus, swine and sheep. These animals are first shown and judged with respect to the desirable qualities and are displayed before a showmanship judge who makes a decision as to how well the showman presents his animal. More emphasis is placed on showmanship than the actual standing of the animal since the latter are allotted to the showmen. In addition each showman must, previous to the Royal, fit his animal by washing, brushing, clipping in some cases and training the animal to handle easily and properly in the showing.

In the afternoon of the Royal a champion livestock showman is picked and this is the highlight of the entire show. He is the person who does the best job of displaying one animal from each of the four divisions.

Novice classes have been instituted for those people who have had no experience in showing animals. The superintendents of each breed are willing to assist anyone who desires advice or help. Therefore if you enjoy animals and would like to get more experience working with them the Macdonald College Royal 62 is your opportunity.

Lists will be circulated within the next few

THE SPORTS SCENE

by DAVID BAXTER

Although the Macdonald Aggies lost their first game to the powerful Sir George team, the loss was of the encouraging nature. The team was not lost against what is considered the most likely team to win the league, and if this is any indication of how they are going to play in future; then the Aggies can look forward to a profitable season. Sir George, led by twenty to twenty-five points all during the game, but Ted Pratt and Larry Eldridge pulled down rebounds, as well as setting up, and making good offensive plays.

The team was noticeably weak on their field goal tries and their foul shooting. This was been worked on during the week and they are now ready for the Bishops Gators. By all rights this is one of the teams that the Aggies should beat; but tomorrow will tell.

George Koski has left the team and his loss will be noticeable. He has been replaced by Bill Mitchell. Don't forget the game tomorrow. It will start in Stewart Hall gym at 2:00 p.m. sharp.

HOCKEY TONIGHT

There will be hockey at the rink tonight as the Varsity plays their second game of the year. In their first they lost 7-2 to the McGill Indians. It was felt that all the team needed was a little more experience and they would be on their way to a good season. The game tonight will prove a warm-up for the league opener against Bishops. In the first game there were some who looked very strong, among them Amos Coleman and Sparky Anderson. The game tonight is against the NDG Monarchs and the first home game will be on Dec. 2 against the Loyola team.

INTERCLASS SPORTS

As predicted, the Sophs (AGR) won the interclass football. They beat out Teachers III by the score of 30-1 on the two game total point series. In interclass volleyball the Freshmen Teachers have been coming on strongly and now have a record of 5-1.

There were a few who distinguished themselves in the swimming meet just held last week. Bob Jack, usually a pretty quite fellow, let the records speak for themselves as he won five individual events as well as breaking the butterfly record. Eagle Markies broke Pentti Luomala's record in the one hundred yards breast stroke by turning in a time of one minute, thirteen point eight seconds. He also established a new standard in the fifty yards breast stroke. Others who showed well were Guy Parker, George Koski and Pentti Luomala. With some added talent this should be a hard team to beat in the intercollegiate championships.

ODDS AND ENDS

Here I am, still in one piece after my adventure to the front pages last week and none the worse for wear. Actually I'm happy to be back as I hate the thought of writing an intellectual sports column. It would just not be sporting.

I have finally figured out the sneakiest play from the past football season. It all started when Kenny Taylor went out for the end position at the beginning of the year. By the end of the year Kenny was still not on the score sheet and this was rather a bind to him. In the last game of the season he threatened to fire the whole team if he didn't score. So, under pressure, the sneaky play was devised. After a touchdown, the ball was snapped back to Sam Portch. Bobby Davidson faked the convert and a perfect pass found Kenny all alone in the end zone. Kenny is now trying to work fake foul shots in basketball, but so far he has not been able to convince the referees that the basketball has actually gone into the net.

Nor is that all; there has been more skimping going on behind the back of the honest Macdonald spectator. In a game that was played on Wednesday, the second year P. Eds beat out first year by the score of five to two in a closely fought hockey match. Two cast-offs from the varsity hockey team, who will remain nameless, were recruited and practically

MALES ONLY

Many of the girls at Macdonald are fed up with you! Who do you think you are? Do you fellas think that you are irresistible?

Please boys, just because there are a lot of "fish in the sea" don't think that you are the only "bait." Asking a girl out at 8.00 p.m. for an 8.30 p.m. date...UGH! The fact that you have gone off the deep end is shown in connection with the Teacher's Prom which is being held tonight. Many of you had the inconsideration to ask your date out only three or four days ago. Maybe you don't understand what goes on behind the scenes when a girl is asked to a formal prom. Believe me boys, it is much more than having a shirt and suit cleaned.

You will say, "So what? The girls accepted anyway didn't they?" Sure, all the girls love to go to a dance, and when they get the chance, they are reluctant to refuse.

Come on fellas...let's show a little more consideration in the future.

Mixed Swimming

Do you want a way to relax? A break from studying? A little exercise? Use the pool — that is what it is there for! There is mixed swimming every Wednesday from 7:30 to 9:00 which is supervised by competent (?) lifeguards. Incidentally the pool which is used for mixed swimming is the one in Stewart Hall.

SPOTLIGHTING Women's Sports

INTERCOLLEGIATE BASKETBALL

Last Saturday we were treated to a very exciting basketball game when the Intermediate team played College Marguerite Bourgeois (It even held more thrills than the hard-fought game that followed it).

We got off to a good start holding the lead throughout the first quarter with Donna Trenholme, Pam Millinchamp, and Karen Lanthier keeping Mac in baskets. The play slackened in the second and third quarters resulting in C.M.B. taking over the lead. There were many times that our girls could have tied the score on free-throws but they just couldn't sink the ball.

Going into the last minutes of play the score was tied 27-27, Pam made the next two points and the girls settled down to win the game 35-30.

For the offense Donna Trenholme, and Pam Millinchamp turned in very good performances. Margo Wray, Marg Maurice and Fran Laurie played well on defense.

INTERCLASS BADMINTON

ATTENTION!! All those girls in the first round of the tournament must have their games played by Monday (Nov. 22) or the games will be defaulted. It is up to the person in the top bracket to arrange with their opponent, and if the game is not played by the required date the girl in the lower bracket wins by default.

The second round must be played by Dec. 4, the third round by Dec. 11.

INTERCLASS SWIM-MEET

The interclass swim-meet is being held next Wednesday at 7:00 in the Stewart Hall swimming pool. Each class should enter at least one team. The three types of competitions are speed swimming, obstacle races, and synchronized swimming. If you want to swim for your class to try and make some points, speak to your W.A.A. Rep.

VOLLEYBALL

The intercollegiate volleyball team played in a double elimination tournament last week. There were five other teams in the competition. Macdonald won two games before they were eliminated. Since these games were not league games, it was a good chance to discover the team's weaknesses, which were found to be the inability to set up the ball for a good spike. Sandy Thompson and Sely Schaffler played very well.

SIDELINES

- Curling has started — Saturday 7:00 to 11:00 (p.m.)
Sunday 10:00 to 12 noon
